LIVE SIMPLY THOUGHT OF THE WEEK Eating with the seasons is one great way to reduce your carbon footprint. Getting seasonal groceries will cut down on the CO2 released transporting food across the country—and will introduce you to new recipes and flavours. So, before you go to the supermarket, understand what's in season and buy accordingly. Buy seasonal fruit and veg from your local market—great for your local community.

CAFOD—How can you help? Your gift today goes a long way. CAFOD is the official Catholic aid agency for England and Wales.
